

SEEKING PROGRAM STAFF for the "JAPAN IN DC" Summer Program 2023

This year, Globalize DC will again offer its six-week summer program, "JAPAN IN DC," for DC public high school students. Introduced in 2017, this program is organized around the theme of exploring and documenting the presence of Japan in our city. DC is filled with individuals, institutions, and places associated with Japan. Think Cherry Blossoms and the Freer|Sackler, the Embassy of Japan and the US State Department, businesses, NGOs, students, academics, artists, chefs, entrepreneurs, and members of the Japanese American community – Japan is all around us. The program is engaging, fun, and educational for the students. It includes light reading, writing, and discussion; site visits, meetings, interviews, and cultural experiences; and two final group projects (including a publication). We will have a special focus in 2023 on the World War II era (including investigation of Japanese American incarceration, Japanese American veterans, the atomic bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, and other themes and legacies of these wartime events). As part of the Marion Barry Summer Youth Employment Program (MBSYEP), students will be paid for their participation. The program will operate Monday-Friday (June 26-August 4, 2023), 5 hours per day. Up to twenty (20) students will be selected for the program.

JOB DESCRIPTIONS

We are seeking two (2) CO-TEACHERS to lead this cool summer educational program. Alternately, depending on the candidate pool, we may hire one (1) LEAD TEACHER and one (1) PROGRAM ASSISTANT (with pay adjusted accordingly). We also want to hear from interested persons who cannot do the full 6-weeks; we may be able to creatively accommodate shorter-term staff.

The responsibilities of the CO-TEACHERS include:

- Lead discussions, classroom activities, and field trips to meet agreed-upon learning objectives.
- Ensure student participants engage in documentation and other assignments, and exercise best professional effort to achieve high quality student work, student engagement, and student learning.
- Create a mutually supportive learning community in which students feel accepted, respected, and supported.
- Exercise vigilance in ensuring the safety and well being of the student program participants.

We are looking for:

- Secondary school teachers (social studies teachers are ideal candidates), international education professionals, or graduate students with at least 2 years relevant experience.
- Individuals who live and/or work in DC or the surrounding area, and are familiar with the city's geography and public transit system. We will not consider out-of-town individuals, who are new to DC, for this position.
- Knowledge and experience with Japan, DC history, and/or oral history are all pluses.
- Creative, flexible, responsible, and enthusiastic team players, with an ability to relate well to students.

These are paid positions. Summer program staff will be paid at an hourly rate on a contractual basis.
